Wed 15 RACHEL BAIMAN

plus Misty River • £10adv £12door • Doors 7:30pm

With her 2017 debut 'Shame', Americana songwriter and multi-instrumentalist Rachel Baiman emerged as a fearless voice of the American female experience. "Shame" was featured on NPR's "Songs We Love", called a "Rootsy Wake-up Call" by Folk Alley, and described by Vice's "Noisery" as "flipping off authority one song at a time." Her new album, Common Nation Of Sorrow, is a heartbreaking albeit beautiful assessment of her native land where she tells stories of American capitalism and the individual and communal devastation it manifests. rachelbaiman.com

Wed 29 STACY ANTONEL

plus Banjo Jen • £10adv £12door

Nashville artist Stacy Antonel makes clever, country-leaning Americana that feels both vintage and hyper-modern. Her "country jazz" vocals conjure the great singers of the 20s-30s, with the emotive power of country icon Patsy Cline. Rooted in classic country and laced with elements of jazz, pop, and R&B, Antonel's narrative songs often feature unconventional themes. Stacy grew up near San Diego studying classical piano and cites an eclectic range of early musical inspiration. stacyantonel.com
